Truth as a Value
Compiled by Bret A. Heim, MSLIS

Keywords: truth, virtue, value, epistemology, expressivism, falsehood

Among other things, argues that there are no objectively correct epistemic goals which can ground objective judgments of epistemic reasonableness.

Criticizes epistemic value monism.

Contains an extended discussion of internalism and externalism, and argues against the instrumental conception of epistemic justification. Also argues that there are no false justified beliefs.

Argues for the objective value of true beliefs.

Argues against expressivism and anti-realism about the value of true beliefs.

